ORPHANS' GALA DAY.

The Waifs of the Two Cities Given Their Annual Excursion

ON THE MAYFLOWER BY GUSKY'S.

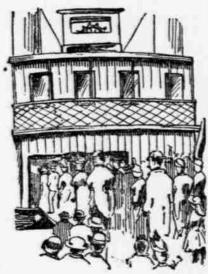

A Feast of Peanuts, Provisions, Watermelons, Fireworks, Etc.

NOTHING TO MAR THE DAY'S PLEASURE

It was a privilege yesterday to be an orphan, at least during the time of Gusky's fifth annual picnic excursion up the Monongabela river, given to the orphan children of Pittsburg and Allegheny. Not only did the thousand children think so-and they wore backes of different orphan asylumsbut countless other little waifs wished they could be orphans for a day as they watched first the pies, cakes, melons, etc., carried on board the gayly-decked steamer Mayflower yesterday morning as she lay at her wharf; and later saw the parentless picnickers chaperoned by motherly-faced ladies and bright misses follow in the wake of the goodies and receive the password to the enjoyment of a whole day "chuck full" of steamboat rides, sweetmeats, swings, fireworks, and, above all, a few hours away from the dust and soot of the city.

"I wish I was an orphan," said one of three little river rats longingly casting glances at the boat and the badges on the orphaus. Suddenly his companion's face brightened and he disappeared, but reap-peared soon, and then all three marched up the gangplank along with the scholars of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum. One of the managers saw the budges on the waists of the dirty-faced youngsters, and asked: 'What school do you belong to?'

"I've forgot," said one. The others looked bewildered, but were not deprived of the pleasure they sought, and they nearly killed themselves with all the watermelon and peanuts they wanted,

All Aboard!

At 9 o'clock all the children were or board, the band was playing, the flags fly-ing, but the boat did not move. The minutes grew into half hours until 10:40; but children didn't care a cent as long as the band continued playing, and they were sure the "goodies" were in the cabin. The cylinder of the engine had gotten out of order on a trip down the Ohio the night be-fore, and was not ready for service until the hour named above. At last the probability of a wharf picnic, as it seemed, was gone, and amid huzzas, a wave of flags and a quick, lively tune by the band, the May-flower slowly cleared her docks and started on her trin up the Ohio to Wild Rose Park,

The children were placed in groups representing those from each asylum. Those in each group of children were dressed nearly alike and wore different colored badges. The little girls from St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum were hats trimmed with red ribbon. There were 125 children from this institution. They were in charge of Rev. Father John B. Duffner, President of the board, and the following gentlemen: Mr. O. A. Redline, Rev. M. Stegger, Nick Kunzmann, Jacob Ratzler, Andrew Moes-lein, Anton Bonthlein, Jr., and M. Stanb. Fifty-eight bright little faces were the yellow badges of the Episcopal Church Home. They were in charge of Miss Emma Loomis, matron of the home. The follow-ing ladies and gentlemen were also along to see that none of the little happy souls fell overboard or ate too much of the goodies: Mrs. Carrie Haines, Mrs. Mary Gorman, Mrs. G. V. Kimberlein, Mrs. Helen Arm-strong, Mrs. Baursmith, Mr. De Wayne is, Rev. W. N. and Mrs. Webbe, of St. John's Church, and Prof. Fisk Slattery, principal of the Riverside Schools. THE OTHER INSTITUTIONS.

Miss Bailey, assistant matron of the Home for the Friendless, and Miss Hambright, a teacher, had charge of the 86 children from that institution. Mrs. E. D. McKnight, President of the Board of Directors; Mrs. Dewhurst, Mrs. John Johnston, Rev. E. R. Donehoo and Mrs. Alice Ewing, M. D., the Chicago representative at Johnstown, were also assistants in look-ring after the charges of the home.

Fifty-four neatly dressed colored children, of the Colored Orphan Asylum, of Greenwood avenue, Allegheny, were accompanied by the following ladies: Mrs. Mon-roe, Mrs. Wyles, Mrs. Leekey, Mrs. Gross, Mrs. Ormsby Phillips, Mrs. O'Donnell, representing the managers. The children were under the direct charge of Miss Kemp, a teacher, the matron being absent.

The Protestant Orphan Asylum, Ridge avenue, Allegheny, was represented by 100 children, accompanied by Mrs. Northrop, Mrs. Emma Stowe, Mrs. H. B. Logan and Mrs. Emma Stowe, Mrs. H. D. Janes Miss S. C. Cameron.

The Allegheny Day Nursery had in charge 10 little ones. The ladies accompanying them were Mrs. Dr. S. F. Stewart, Mrs. Addison Lysle, Mrs. Sloan and others.

Mrs. Addison Lysle, Mrs. Sloan and others. A few representatives from the Boys' Protestant Home were on board, but the majority of the boys could not enjoy the benefit of the excursion on account of their

A FULL LARDER.

So much for children; now for the trip up the river. Who ever saw a child that was not hungry, especially on a pienic day? Mr. W. De Wolfe, who was in charge of the commisary department, said he had not, and set out to satisfy the failing of the little picnickres with the following list of provisions and goodies: Three hundred pairs pring chickens, 75 tongues, 50 pounds corned beef, 50 pounds roast bee!, 100 loaves, 25 pounds che ese, 250 deviled crabs, 300 ice cakes, 125 gallons ice cream, 400 pies, 125 watermelons, 6 boxes oranges, 5 boxes Eartlett pears, 12 bunches bananas, 125 gallons milk, 12 bags peanuts. "Johnny" Stroup, of Stroup's Bandbox, had charge of the lemonade stand and made barrel after harrel of that drink.

No limit was placed to anything, and none were told, "You've had enough; move on." The tables were set soon after the boat started, and it was not deserted until the picnickers neared Wild Rose Park. For dinner the children were given sandwiches, cake, icecream, bananas, etc., and an excellent lunch was set for the older guests, when the little ones had their fill.

A stop was made at Wild Rose Park at a little after 2 P. M., but the landing had been washed out since the picnic last year and the found on draught at all first-class bars.

banks were too steep to climb. The managers concluded to go farther up the river about a mile and a half to Union Grove. The whistle was blown, but many of the little boys had been too quick for the managers and ran up the bank and off up the hill. The bell continued ringing, and soon a stream of little black boys came running and rolling down the steep embankment

LIKE SO MANY CRICKETS and causing endless laughter. At last all were on board again, and the steamer soon dropped the plank at Union Grove, where the William Walls Fishing Club, of the Twenty-seventh ward, are in camp.

The children scrambled ashore and rolled on the grass, or rather weeds, until they were tired. There was little else but weeds were tired. There was little else but weeds on the grounds and no place to play ball or other games, but the children did not seem to mind it and there was not an unhappy countenance among them. The following werses, selected from a poem written for the occasion by Mr. Nichols, of Gusky's, and printed on a neat gilt card, which was given to each child, describes as well as words could probably portray something of the pleasure indulged in by the little orphans:

Oh, those sweetly smiling faces,
Chubby hands and sparkling eyes—
Oh, what mischief in your chirpings,
Shouts of glee and laughter, sighs.
Oh, what running, skipping, jumping,
Games and prants in harmless plays;
What a heap of fun's exploded
During childhood's sunny days.

Bless your merry, happy faces!
Bless your nimble tootsteps, gay—
Laugh and chatter—sing and frolic!
To your heart's delight, all day.
Huge enjoy the spread of good things—
Show the world what 'tis to be
Full of youthful animation—
Young America set free!

But, when through your fun and laughter,
And you come to disembark,
Once more to your studies buckle,
Firm resolved to make your mark.
Nor forget, before retiring,
This small tribute lay away—
'Twill exerte a fond remembrance
Of Gusky's orphans' picuic day,

SOME REPORTORIAL FUN. No little excitement was caused at one No little excitement was caused at one time by the announcement that it was feared Walter Cooper, a son of one of Gusky's employes, had been left at Wild Rose Park, and lost or drowned. A reporter started out in a rowboat to find the boy, but soon after he turned up all right with a smile on his face. About 4:30 the bell was rung, the children all again put on board and the return trip commenced. At Wild Rose Park the reporter was in waiting to get on board. The steamer could not get near The steamer could not get near enough to throw the plank to shore, and the reporter waved frantically at his friends of the quill on the steamer and rushed into the water over his ankles as the steamer backed off. It went a little farther up the river, and the stranded reporter rushed about with a wild stare, and falling into the arms of his friends cried frantically, "Give me a cigarette, for heaven's sake."

The steamer backed off, the cigarette was forthcoming and all was again serene. The children now turned the tables for awhile and became the entertainers. The boys of St. Joseph's Schools give an exhibition in calisthenics with cases. The girls then went through another drill of the same kind. Songs were then sung and recitations given by different children for some time. At last a little darky appeared from the lower deck with a bunk of watermelon and all else was forgotten until the large pile was gone. When the last melon had been cut, the peanuts were brought forth and dealt out in hatsful. The wake of the steamer all the way to the city was filled with melon rinds, peanut shucks, wooden plates and remains of the feast.

BEGINNING OF THE END. At Thirteenth street, Southside, the St.

Michael's children were put ashore and the boat proceeded past its own landing to Lo-cust street, Allegheny, where the children from the Home for Colored Children were placed once again on dry land. The boat once more cleared the shore and made for its own wharf. All the way from Locust street fireworks were shot off, making a trail of sparks in the steamer's wake, and at 8:30 the plank was thrown ashore at the foot of Water street and the day was done.

The picnic was a complete success in every particular. Not the least thing went wrong to mar the names of any or all and at the cor clusion of the day old as well as young had nothing but pleasant remembrances of the day. All declared that they never had a better time. Mr. K. Solomon and Mr. K. De Wolf had

Mr. K. Solomon and Mr. K. De Wolf had entire charge of the excursion and with their assistants had arranged every detail so that nothing went amiss. Mr. Abb Veatch, in charge of the Mayflower for the owners, gave the boat up entirely to the children and the management of the picnic. The Monongahela Navigation Company gave the lockage free. Mr. Solomon said that the trip cost about $1,500, but it was worth it to see the pleasure of the it was worth it to see the pleasure of the children. The provisions were plenty and of the best. The children had all they wanted of everything, and if some of them are not sick from eating so much it will be a wonder. A box of candy was given to each child as it left the boat, and as each party landed it gave three cheers for Gusky's orphan's picule excursion.

The Trouble Between the K. of L. and Federation More Complicated.

ROW AT NEXT TRADES COUNCIL

Flocking Into the City.

THE LINDEN STEEL COMPANY SIGNS

A few week ago THE DISPATCH announced that trouble was brewing between the Knights of Labor and the Federation of Labor. The dissatisfaction has been smoldering since that time, and between now and Saturday night, when the Central Trades Council will meet, it will be fanned into a blaze.

The cause of the trouble now is the grantfused to issue it. The latter was supposed to be true, and those who opposed the slaters' organization coming into the order construed it to mean that it was at District Assembly No. 3. However, the officials of the District Assembly got in their work first, and upon their recom-mendation the charter was granted. When the other side heard that the charter had been granted they declared that things would be made lively at the Trades Council

Saturday night. and afterward made an application to be organized into the Knights of Labor. Or-ganizer Joseph L. Evans formed them into a local assembly, which was given the number of 491.

APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE

men who would not go into the federation has further complicated matters, and it is further probable that the General Executive Board will be requested to withdraw it from the local assembly. The members of 491 will then have to go into the slate roofers' union if they want recognition from the union if they want recognition from the federation men. This, the former claim, they will not do. They say they are all residents of the city and will not mix with the "floaters."

The officials of D. A. 3, of this city, justify their action in the matter by saying that the lederation men would not recogeither had to join the federation or leave town. Most of them did the latter.

A regular meeting of L. A. 491 was held last night. The above was freely discussed.

It was the opening of the regular fall trade, and the men are gathering to meet jobbers and show them their stocks. Representatives of jobbing houses from all over the country are flocking into town to make their purchases. They buy so much that they cannot afford to wait until the regular drummers come round and show them their stocks.
